

CLUB WOMEN IN CONVENTION AT EL RENO TODAY

Interesting Addresses at Morning Session: Election This Afternoon.

Fifty delegates from twenty-three of the federated women's clubs of the second district are holding an enthusiastic session at El Reno which opened Tuesday afternoon with a welcome address by Mrs. R. C. Huntington. Talks were made by officers of the state federation, including Mrs. Tom Hope, president; Mrs. M. F. Farley, Mrs. H. R. Weston, Mrs. H. Conner Todd, Mrs. E. R. Bender, Mrs. Eugene L. McCain, Miss Elizabeth Boyle, Mrs. W. H. Galbraith and the new district presidents.

Reports on the state endorsement fund and the educational loan fund were given by Mrs. Charles H. Hume and Mrs. John Threadgill. The afternoon session ended with an auto trip to Fort Reno and the Masonic home at Darlington.

The address by Mrs. Tom Hope on "The Spirit of Youth" was the feature of the evening's program, which included also the welcoming address by Mayor P. P. Luffs and by Mrs. T. B. Ferguson of Watonga. An interesting musical program ended with an informal reception by the Westmoreland club at the Carnegie library.

Reports of committees and revision of the constitution and by-laws during this morning's session was followed by a talk by Mrs. Stephen R. Threadgill on "The Moonlight Schoolwork in Our State" and an address by Mrs. Joseph Tilton, chairman of the health committee on definition of the rank of Indian children who told of the Indian baby show held at Muskogee, the day of its kind, where forty-two Indian babies were exhibited.

Mrs. Russell G. Kilgus gave a talk on home economics, and the music conference was in charge of Mrs. C. A. Gallaway, chairman of the music committee.

The election of officers this afternoon was the action of chief interest, the general opinion being that Mrs. George W. Goodwin of Clinton, vice president, would succeed to the presidency.

ADVERTISING IS SPECIALTY LINE

Speaker at Club Dinner Advocates Retention of Expert Workers.

This is the age of specialization, says the speaker, and the expert is the man of the future.

With this as a platform, Knolly in France, head of the Southwestern advertising agency, delivered an interesting address to the Oklahoma City Advertising Club at its meeting Wednesday night at the El Reno hotel.

Based on the statement upon the fact that advertising is a specialty line, Knolly said that the business of advertising is a specialty line, and that the expert is the man of the future. He said that the expert is the man of the future, and that the expert is the man of the future.

The speaker related the old adage that "advertising is a specialty line" and said that the expert is the man of the future. He said that the expert is the man of the future, and that the expert is the man of the future.

These elements, he declared, are not in the same order of importance in advertising, the success of which depends upon the appeal of the advertisement to the mind of the consumer. The chief responsibility of the advertiser is to make his advertisement appeal to the mind of the consumer.

Industrial History of Oklahoma City

The Industrial History of Oklahoma City, now being prepared for early publication by HARLOW'S WEEKLY, will be divided into ten sections. It will contain:

OKLAHOMA CITY

This section will be historical in relation to the various steps by which Oklahoma City arrived at its present size and importance.

MANUFACTURING

Showing what is manufactured here now; the extent of the manufacturing interest already developed; why it is to the advantage of all Oklahoma to buy goods made in Oklahoma; and opportunities for other manufacturing industries.

REAL ESTATE

This section will deal with the rapid advance of prices during the "boom," the slump at its end and the gradual recovery on a basis of FACTS. It shows the present foundation for Oklahoma realty prices and proves to any intelligent person that Oklahoma City property is a better investment today than it has ever been.

AS A MARKET

This section shows the extent to which Oklahoma City takes the raw products of the State and distributes them to the markets of the world. Subsections deal with cotton, grain, hay, produce, livestock, etc. It proves the value of Oklahoma City's marketing agencies to the people of the state and should be placed in the hands of thousands of shippers and producers.

WHOLESALE AND JOBBING

Showing the importance of this city as a distributing center; that it is to the advantage of Oklahoma merchants to concentrate their trade in this city, and openings for still further additions to the lines now sold out of this city. This section is of particular interest to retail merchants and should be placed in the hands of every important retail merchant in the state.

TRANSPORTATION

Dealing with Railroads and the Interurban system. Showing the facilities for distribution with reference to factories and wholesale houses located here and the territory naturally tributary to this city.

FINANCIAL

A review of banking facilities, resources, connections and policies and their relation to the growth of the city.

THE RETAIL SECTION

Showing the development of the various lines of retail business in Oklahoma City. (No retail advertising will be accepted.)

AS A PLACE OF RESIDENCE

This section will deal with schools, churches, streets, public utilities, parks and all things that contribute to the comfort and enjoyment of people who live here, and make it one of the best places in the United States for a permanent residence.

THE MEN WHO MADE OKLAHOMA CITY

Giving very brief sketches of the services rendered Oklahoma City by its citizens. The men to be mentioned in this section were selected in this manner: The publishers of HARLOW'S asked more than twenty of the older and more conservative citizens to suggest a list of men who had done most to make Oklahoma City what it is; the names they selected are the ONLY ones who will be discussed in this work. This is done without money and without price. No man can inject himself into this section. This will be the FIRST and ONLY disinterested and uninfluenced list of the "Makers of Oklahoma City" ever compiled.

YOUR INTEREST IN THIS WORK

No matter what you do, you want more business for Oklahoma City. You want more people to come to Oklahoma City. No city in the country offers such a wealth of opportunity; Harlow's Weekly will tell of those opportunities in clear convincing words. You should send SOME copies to friends and acquaintances. You should add to the total number to be distributed. Don't wait for a solicitor to call; phone and we will send one. A few pages will be devoted to advertising at rates justified by the work and the number of copies sold.
